Module:	Module title:	Credits:	teaching units
	Introduction to German in Austria	4 ECTS	18
Degree Programme	n.a.
Semester	Fall, Spring
Course Leader	t.b.c.
Level	A1-B2
Course prerequisites	Depending on course level, no prerequisites for A1
Block course	Yes
Participants	Guest Students
Groups	Yes
Contribution to subsequent modules
Bibliography	Depending on the course
Course objectives	Teaching of some A1.1 topics (being able to greet and say goodbye; introducing and giving basic information about oneself; understanding basic information about others) Teaching of basic A1.1 grammar Austrian regional studies Networking with other incoming students Development of intercultural communication skills through active contribution to the "International Fair," including preparation and presentation of information about the home university to an Austrian student audience Critical reflection on cultural identity, stereotypes, and culture shock through participation in the interactive "Shared Experiences" workshop, incorporating group, team, and individual activities
Format	ILV
Evaluation	Continuous
Course content	German language • Greetings, introductions, farewells • Family • Hobbies, leisure time • Food & drink • Grammar: Personal pronouns • Important verbs and verb conjugation • Sentence structure (main clause) • The modal verb 'können' (can) Landeskunde: General information about Austria • Culture and history • Sport • Nature • Music: classical and contemporary • Language in Austria

	Winter Semester — "International Fair" Active participation in the International Fair organized by the International Office is mandatory for all course participants. Each student prepares a poster presenting their home university and represents it at an information table during the fair, which usually takes place in mid-October as part of the Erasmus Days. The aim is to provide first-hand insights to FHWN students interested in spending a semester abroad. Attendance for the full duration of the event is required. Summer Semester — "Shared Experiences" Workshop In the spring term, participants are required to take part in the interactive Shared Experiences workshop facilitated by the International Office. The workshop integrates group, team, and individual activities and focuses on themes such as culture shock, prejudices, and stereotypes. Students engage actively and contribute by representing their home culture. Course languages: German and English
Module Version	n.a.